

Why Childhaven and Art with Heart?

In this past year of stretch, Art with Heart has continued to serve youth and adults using the healing power of creative expression. This was a year that taught us the power of connection and that creative expression is a catalyst of change no matter the environment; 67% of our creative facilitators used our resources digitally this year and 76% of our users were new. Whether it was broadening access through digitizing curriculum or creating a suite of free COVID resources, and lesson videos with experts mirroring facilitation, Art with Heart used creative expression to promote emotional safety, SEL skills, and coping strategies that provide the foundation for emotional well-being in all the places kids and youth live, learn, and play.

Who are the kids reached?

Facilitators use our resources 1:1, in small groups, community based program, or camps.

The future of Care everywhere

Leverage the expertise of new identified audience prospects, like those in the role of "Other" who are volunteers, mentors, or artists in residence, folx closer to community-based work and leaders, through collaboration to create a community leader-focused resource.

Based on books sold develop new training modules that amplify Childhaven's capacity will focus on topics like SEL/creative expression for anti-racism for educators or creative expression for patients with limited mobility in hospitals and creative expression to help build relationships with families.

We are building a referral program to utilize our word-of-mouth advocates to drive resource usage.

We are looking to conduct an evidence-based research project with one of our current hospital partners. By utilizing one of these institutions, we can create validity, and gain access to research support tools and a greater network of insight.
